INTRODUCING

C. C. YELLAND

The above cut is a likeness of C. C. Yelland who has secured the Lakeside Farmer and with it the good will of the former publishers, the subscription list, the entire printing plant and we hope, the best wishes of the people of Lakeside and surrounding communities.

Born on an Iowa farm, the new publisher of the Farmer has had quite a variety of experience in the newspaper field. This experience covered a period of more than twenty years on the Iowa paper then in Minnesota and recently in Los Angeles. The new publsher also served as a postmaster in a third class office in Iowa for ten years and six months.

Coming to California nearly five years ago on account of the health of the family we are now confirmed Californians and are determined to make a permanent home for ourselves in this most healthful climate which has worked wonders for us in the way of better health The above mentioned family includes Mrs. Yelland and an eighteen year old daughter, Betty, who at the present time is visiting relatives and friends in Iowa and Minnesota and who will join her family here later in the summer.

But we do not ntend to publish the Farmer for our health alone The business of publishing a newspaper is carried on for the same reason that men engage in other lines of business, that is to make money, and we intend to conduct the business of the Farmer in a manner that will make money. Naturally we do not expect to become rich from the earnings of this business but we do expect it to yield us a comfortable living.

No one realizes more than we that there is no reason nor excuse for the existence of any newspaper unless it renders a real service to the community in which it is published and takes the lead in all matters that tend toward the promotion of home enterprises and in building up a community spirit in which the matter of "trading at home" will not need to be called to the attention of its readers as the smart thing to do.

Politically, we let the cat out of the bag in an above paragraph when we spoke of being postmaster for ten years as the democrats have never been in power that many consecutive years. However we believe that a man's political convictions are based chiefly upon emotionalism so intend to pick no quarrel / over anyone's politics. Consequently we intend to keep the Farmer independent politically.

Finally we want the people of the Lakeside community to know that we will appreciate their support and do all in our power to make that side a bigger and better place in which to live and rear our families.

We wish to extend to every reader of the Farmer and everyone who is interested in the welfare of Lakeside and community to make us a call at the Farmer office when in town so that we may make the acquaintance of as many of our home people as possible in the near future.

So with these few words of introduction we herewith present to you our first issue of the Lakeside Farmer and we hope that you will read it and all succeeding issues because a newspaper without readers is published to no avail.

WEEPING FLOWERING TREES BRING QUAINT CHARM TO GARDEN

Margaret Tipton Wheatly

Not often is nature so lavish in her gifts as to combine pendulant branches with fragrant blossoms. Nothing lends more graceful old fashioned charm to the garden than a weeping flowering tree. Even its own loveliness is enhanced when it is brought into relationship with water. The reflection of the long streaming branches in a garden pool is fairy land indeed. No other tree seems quite so thoroughly to belong to the water's edge.

We are all familiar with and love the sweeping branches of the old favorite weeping willow. It is universally planted, but here with our milder winters the evergreen weeping trees should be more widely known and used. The chief objection to the weeping willow is that it drops its leaves in the winter, but its bare branches are most interesting. Too, it attains an enormous size under favorable growing conditions; thus out scaling the smaller andscape.

A few of the more widely adaptable weeping flowering trees are listed here. Small growing, as trees here are reconed; Beginning with the least, and progressing to the largest I hope it may prove an incentive for wider use of these valuable andscape specimens.

BRIDAL VEIL GENISTA will bring a shower of lovely white blossoms, to the landscape of the smalest garden. It is most lovely, with its long drooping, silvery, almost leafless branches swaying in the gentlest breeze.

ACACIA LINEATA one of the newer importations in this well known family is a small weeping tree, with the characteristic acacia blossoms, only these are born all along the graceful branches in among the small pale green leaves.

The MELALEUCA mentioned a few weeks ago as being so well adapted to this secton, bears its quaint bright red bottle brush like bossoms over a long period of time.

PITTOSPORUM PHILLYRAEOIDES has slender drooping branches, very much like the weepin willow, only that it is evergreen. Coming to us from the deserts of Austrailia it is adapted to dry conditions. A thought well worth noting when purchasing shrubs and trees for our inland gardens. It gives us lovely fragrant yellow flowers. Eventually attains a height of about thirty feet, but is not a rapid grower, so is classed with the small trees.

If a slightly shaded situation is available and one has room for a tree, the small growing lovely Smilax tree, MAYTENUS BOARIA will delight you. This is a truly lovely altho little known tree.

The Tamarix Xis a shrubby tree familiar to our countryside deserving much better care than it customarily receives. In the early spring it puts out its sprays of delicate pink flowers. The lower shoots should be kept pulled off, that it may grow up into a tree; as is necessary to do to the oleander.

One may see that the group of weeping flowering trees is not large. Although this is not intended as a complete guide to this type of tree, it is a list of those most commonly grown and readily procurable at local nurseries at moderate cost.

Next week, unflowering weeping trees, and then flowering, large up right growing trees.

WHEAT INSURANCE RATE ANNOUNCED FOR COUNTY

Crop Insurance will cost wheat farmers in San Diego County an average of about 1.1 bushels per acre, it was announced today folowing the two day Wheat Crop Insurance Proram conference for California, Nevada and Arizona which was concluded in Berkeley

Such crop insurance will guarantee insured wheat growers three fourths of an average wheat crop in 1939. For insurance that guarantees one half of an average chop the rate will average one half bushel per acre. The premium which an individual wheat farmer will have to pay for insurance on his 1939 crop will depend half on the San Diego County rate of 12.7 bushels per acre, and half upon the crop losses on his own farm. The county rates set by the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation reflect the average per acre loss in this county during the ten year period 1926 to 1935.

In explanation of these rates, Federal Crop Insurance Corporation officials at the Berkley conference pointed out that two farmers with the same average yield for the ten year period would not necessarily pay the same premium for the same percentage coverage. The farmer who suffered but little crop loss would pay less than the farmer who suffered frequent and heavy losses, even though their average yields were the same.

San Diego County rates will be available in the County Agricultural Conservation Association office Chamber of Commerce Bldg., San Diego, which will handle the crop insurance program in this county.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

The Lesson-Sermon on Sunday in all branches of The Mother Church The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, cites for its Golden Text these words of Jesus from Matthew: "Take heed that no man deceive you," and denounces ancient and modern necromancy, alias mesmerism and hypnotism.

One of the Bible selections in the Lesson-Sermon includes these words from Nehemiah: "So built we the wall; . . . for the people had a mind to work." Another passage includes Paul's words to Timothy: "Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth. But shun profane and vain babblings: for they will increase unto more ungodliness."

The Lesson-Sermon presents also these words from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Christian Science reveals Truth and Love as the motive-powers of man. Will—blind, stubborn, and headlong—cooperates with appetite and passion. From this cooperation arises its evil. From this also comes its powerlessness, since all power belongs to God, good."

Constipated?

"For 30 years I had constipation, awful gas bloating, headaches and back pains. Adlerika helped right away. Now, I eat sausage, bananas, pie, anything I want. Never felt better." Mrs. Mabel Schott.

PARKER IN RACE FOR SHERIFF

Harry E. Parker an old time Police Sargent who resides at 3794 Mississippi St. and until recently was a member of the criminal detail in the present sheriff administration, announces his candidancy for the office of sheriff in the August primary election with the following statement.

For the past some time many of our elective offices have been predominated by PROFESSIONAL POLITICIANS who in some cases have not had the round work, known as experience which would qualify them for the position they seek, therefore we can not expect very satisfactory results.

I wish to make it clear to the voters of San Diego city and county that I am not a politician, but I am an officer with years of experience and a proven ability.

We are living in a progressive age, advancing rapidly, but if elected I am going back to the time when you elected a man sheriff, he was a sheriff and not in name only.

Knowledge of our duties are as important as the performance thereof and I feel that my years of experience as a police officer and deputy sheriff qualify me for the position I seek.

I am strictly opposed to the employing of out of town men for positions in our county government while our taxpayers, many of whom are capable and competent are left to walk the streets.

I do not claim to be a super man and shall not promise to do the impossible, but will do all I can to apprehend and bring to justice the criminal element who have destroyed so many of our women and young people and successfully evaded the law, and to protect the rights and privileges of the citizens of San Diego city and county by being a working sheriff which would be my sworn duty as well as my personal inclination.

Last but not least I would take the office out of politics and give it back to the people where it rightfully belongs.
